

Brent French currently helps run the 500-student Foisie Business School at Worcester Polytechnic Institute as the Executive Director of Finance and Operations. He also teaches courses in organizational behavior, leadership, ethics, and talent analytics. Brent was formerly an Associate Professor of Leadership at the Naval War College. He spent 27 years in full-time and part-time military service and retired in 2018 from the Air Force as a Colonel. Brent served as a Security Forces officer and led units tasked with protecting assets vital to national security. He has deployed multiple times to Afghanistan, completed staff tours with HQ AFSOC, HQ USAF, and SECDEF, is a graduate of the Army's Airborne, Air Assault, and Ranger schools, and has earned the coveted Navy and Marine Corps parachutist insignia. Advanced degrees include an MBA from WPI and a PhD from Antioch University's Leadership and Change program.